

Applicant's invention

- Transparent member's effect
 - > Change of optical path
 - > Expanding reference distance's range

de Groot's invention

Without Transparent member, it is not possible to measure gap between Transparent member and Object

- Transparent member's effect → change of light intensity and phase in accordance with the gap
- Change of optical path due to transparent member → no role in measuring the gap